BOON TO FARMERS, BLIGHT TO TENT DWELLERS—Among the farmers of Israel, recent torrential rain was an occasion for thanksgiving, for the rain saved their crops from what has been described by an agricultural expert as a "major catastrophe". However, the rain brought lack of housing and misery to the tent dwellers who are the immigrant masses. The tent city near Tel Aviv became a quagmire. About 20 per cent of the tents collapsed and almost all were flooded. The Israeli army rushed help to those most badly in need.

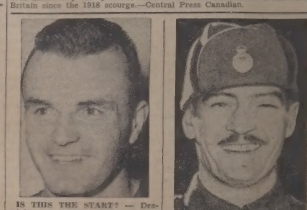

HOCKEY MEMORIALS GET SCROLLS—Between periods at the Montreal Forum, in the recent Toronto-Canada game, Henry Lacombe, Mike Green and Joe Malone, (left to right), great players of earlier hockey eras, officially received their Hockey Hall of Fame scrolls, and are seen leaving in private over the scrolls belonging to Mike after the presentation. Mr. Wm. Stortley also presented them with watches and the Forum entertained the threesome, and other sports folk, at dinner before the game.

"AMONG MY SOUVENIRS"—Among the souvenirs which Col. Everett Butler of Woodville, Ont., brought back from Korea was this 600-year-old Korean mirror, with creases side of polished metal, which Fraser Mc-Kinney and Sharon Meyers are seen admiring. Butler's return home is scheduled at a two-month-long stay in Korea, where his 340-man company, Royal Canadian Regiment, was sent as an advance party to pave the way for Canada's special brigade.—Central Press Canadian.

TAKING PRECAUTIONS AGAINST ANOTHER FLU OUTBREAK—Although influenza epidemics has "let up" a little in various stream areas throughout Britain, precautions are still being taken to keep the germ from spreading to other countries. Here coast-travelling passengers from England are being inspected by a U.S. public health service employee in New York. Hundreds of people have died and thousands of others have been affected by the epidemic, which is said to be the worst disease to hit Britain since the 1918 scourge.—Central Press Canadian.

Major James Deans Wood, 35, (above), of Calgary, the first fatal accident among Canadian troops since their arrival in Korea. Wood, a company sergeant-major in the 2nd Bn. Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, died of wounds shortly after an accidental detonation while demonstrating the use of high explosives. A permanent force soldier, he had won the Distinguished Conduct Medal in October, 1944, for extensive gallantry while helping the Princess Patricia's establish a bridgehead across the Isonzo River in Italy during the Second World War. A native of Banff, Alta., he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Norma Louise Wood, of 637 14th Ave. West, Calgary.

THIRD TOWN HALL FOR FAM. IS. REINMAN—Like the other women who lived in the shoe and had no money children she only knew what to do. Mr. and Mrs. William Wood of Brantford, Ont., with 40 dependents in all, had to hire the town hall for their reunion party. Married for 20 years, their dependents consist of seven children, 28 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

OPTIMISM THAT PAID OFF—When the $27,000 community matter of Blyth, Ont., was started last year, there was $60 in the treasury. But that didn't deter residents of the town and the surrounding area. They had collected and borrowed cash as they went along and recently opened the metal building, 185 feet long and 45 feet wide, with the word that the hockey rink will soon pay for itself and the rest of the building in a few years. Here the building committee is seen with the building plans which have become a reality.—Central Press Canadian.

When you take over the farm, one of these days, you'll want to talk to him. You can discuss your affairs in a friendly way, as I have done. And you'll find he knows a lot.

He knows we farmers need bank credit—sometimes to put in a crop, sometimes to take off a harvest. If we need market information, he can get it for us.

Remember when we electrified the farm? Our bank manager made me the loan. He's backed us up that way for years, helping us to improve our stock, increase production.

And that's what our bank manager is there for—to help you and me to manage. He's a good man to know.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES FOR CITY COUNCILLORS

When we first heard that City Council had voted to exempt aldermen from the parking by-laws, we concluded that the aldermen were merely having fun.

Surely (we thought, naively), council cannot be serious in its suggestion that a law should apply to one section of the public and not to another. But it seems our incredulity was misplaced; council was in dead earnest.

On the motion of Alderman R. T. Alderman, council voted 6-5 in favor of a scheme whereby the private automobiles of members of council will be provided with stickers giving them immunity from the parking by-laws; armed with these stickers, they would be able to park where they pleased and for as long as they pleased, regardless of the laws which ordinary mortals must observe.

What grounds are there for giving aldermen the right to unrestricted parking? Is it that they are engaged on important public activities? Then what about the hundreds of other Canadians who are rendering disinterested public service in dozens of worthy, voluntary services? Is it that they are not paid even $500, let alone $750, for their pains?

Is it that our aldermen are so busy that they must not be bothered with picaresque details like putting tickets in parking meters? Well, other people in Calgary are busy too, and many of them are considerably busier than many aldermen, and busier with jobs which are no less beneficial to the city as a whole. It is hard to know where to draw the line.

On the premise from which Alderman Alderman and his supporters appeared to argue, we could draw up a list of people who could be given unrestricted parking rights which would include just about every motorist in the city. Every doctor, every dentist, every registered nurse, plumber, electrician and gas fitter has just as much right to free parking.

If this proposal is carried through, the public will rightly conclude that the purpose of parking meters is to penalize the unprivileged who can bring no influence to bear on the city authorities. It is also likely to conclude that the kind of aldermen who will vote special privileges to themselves are not the kind of aldermen whom the voters want to conduct their affairs. Let council think again.

Mrs. R. C. Zakariassen, of the Handville hospital, was taken ill a few days ago and the snow plow was called to expedite her removal to Drumheller hospital.

Following the storm of Saturday last, Sunday was bitterly cold. Skies were sunny, but with a minimum temperature of 35 below. Some moderation took place on Monday and Tuesday, when the wind turned southwest and on Wednesday morning the thermometer registered 18 above zero at 7 a.m.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

On February 6th, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Milne celebrated a large number of their old time friends at their home to turkey dinner, etc. The evening spent in community singing and old time dancing. A lovely supper was then served by the hostess.

After supper a raffle was formed round the happy couple and all sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Mr. Alex Morrison, being the oldest resident present (42 years in the district), was called upon and gave a gracious little speech, Mr. Milne replying in his joyful manner.

So ended a very enjoyable evening by all singing "Auld Lang Syne." Com.

HOLD IGNITION KEYS TO CHECK CAR THEFTS

Car owners who take special care to remove their ignition keys when their car is parked are helping to have their cars stolen, according to officials of the Alberta Motor Assn.

The wave of car thefts has caused concern among motor club officials, while regulations have been passed urging Alberta citizens to impose severe penalties. Recently, one Alberta tourist convicted of a car theft was given two years in prison before it was returned to its owner.

"It is important that the ignition keys should not be left in the parked car," said one official. "That is a safeguard which car owners should not overlook, no matter where they happen to park, even for a short period."

Recent surveys in the U.S. have demonstrated the need of removing the ignition keys. In one city where 400 car thefts were reported, it was found on investigation that in nine out of every ten cases, the owner had left the ignition keys in the car.

Police authorities have been urged to be particularly on the alert for stolen cars. In numerous instances cars have been recovered. There also are numerous cases where damage of $200 to $300 was done to the car before it was returned to its owner.
